MORRISON UTILITY SERVICES ACHIEVES OHSAS 18001 CERTIFICATION FOR REPUBLIC OF IRELAND BUSINESS

Morrison Utility Services has been awarded an extension of its OHSAS 18001 certification covering its business in the Republic of Ireland. The award was achieved following an extensive audit of its operations in Dublin and Cork.

BS OHSAS 18001 is the internationally recognised assessment of occupational health and safety management systems. Certification of Morrison Utility Services enables the company to accurately plan for and manage health and safety risks associated with its business in Ireland.

Charles Morrison, Chief Executive, Morrison Utility Services, comments:

“Safety is at the heart of everything we do and is our licence to operate. I am extremely pleased that we have achieved this accreditation for our Irish business, the framework it offers can only benefit our performance as we continue to grow in Ireland.”

Morrison Utility Services provides a wealth of services for clients in Ireland, these include:

- eircom - cabling and jointing, poling and civil engineering and maintenance services
- Vodafone – Drive testing, co-ordination of links and network upgrades
- Cork County Council – design, build and maintenance of a non-domestic water metering system

- ENDS -
